PMA Project Managers Global Summit 2022

The Project Managers Global Summit 2022 will be an event for participants across a wide range of sectors, and will offer an excellent exposure to Best Practices, Success Stories and latest updates in Project Management, through Lectures, Presentations and Panel Discussions by Industry Stalwarts, Policy Makers, national and international Thought Leaders and Project Management Experts.

The Summit provides a global platform for sharing and adoption of new techniques and best practices in Project Management to contribute to the success of Projects being implemented by various industries like: Power, Steel, Cement, Oil & Gas, Auto and Construction for achieving Net Zero milestones and targets.
The Indian government has expressed an ambition of making India a USD 5 Trillion economy by 2025 and a USD 10 Trillion economy by 2030. Enabling this growth from the current GDP level of about USD 3 Trillion will require projects to be executed aggressively and effectively across the core sectors of the economy, including Energy, Infrastructure & Construction, Steel, Cement and Transportation. However, economic activity in these industries have will need to be aligned to India’s Net-Zero commitments and milestones. In this connection, Carbon emissions from various sources will have to be minimized. These include direct emissions from sources that are owned or controlled by the industry—like furnaces/boilers and from the raw materials employed. There are also indirect emissions from the source of Energy consumed by the industry (mainly coal-fired electricity, at present). The third includes all other emissions that occur in the industry’s supply chain, including transportation.

With awareness and identification of the emission processes and sources, the industries can better incorporate emission impacts in decision-making along each phase of the project cycle to benefit the environment, energy-use, resources and stakeholders, thereby successfully charting the path to Net-Zero.

Project-led growth in these sectors will therefore require a vast talent pool of Competent Project Professionals who can consistently manage effective deliveries of such Projects, in an environment of increased complexity. In other words, all Project Managers will ultimately influence the extent to which the industry and the economy will be able to decarbonize itself.

Set in this context, the Summit aims to bring out Project Management practices and successes achieved by various industries in their transition to Net Zero, so that they can be shared and promoted across sectors, for mainstreaming the transformation to Net Zero Carbon.

Prominent National and International Project Management Experts, Industry stalwarts, Policy Makers and Innovation leaders will share their Success Stories and best practices that can immensely benefit the entire community of Project Managers.
